Flood Crest Passes In Minnesota, Dakotas

By The Associated Press
The flood crest of the Mississippi River pushed southward today heightening the danger to cities in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri while farther north the waters were receding.

Concerted efforts by the entire populations of some towns, and by elementary, high school and college students at others, had fought back the worst of the flooding.

In Minnesota and the Dakotas, the flood crest had passed, and evacuated residents including more than 12,000 in Minot, N.D., waited for the water to drain away so they could return home.
In Neche, N.D., on one of the few rivers still rising—the Pembina—workers reinforced crumbling dikes.

La Crosse, Wis. officials said the situation was under control, and Mayor Warren Loveland said "Our dikes are so strong and so secure we should have no more trouble unless we get a real bad storm."

Downstream at Prairie du Chien, the riverside section of the community of 5,800 was under several feet of water and residents were evacuated. The U.S. 18 highway bridge to Marquette, Iowa, with an approach under about two feet of swirling water, was closed to all but high-wheeled traffic.

More than 200 British soldiers were stationed at power plants, fuel depots and similar plants to guard against saboteurs. In London, Home Secretary James Callaghan stressed the troops would not be used to maintain order in the streets.

No Verdict On Sirhan's Life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I beseech you," said the defense lawyer, "to spare Sirhan Sirhan's life—it would carry forth the brave spirit of Robert Kennedy's compassion."

"We have lavishly expended our resources for the sake of a cold-blooded political assassin," said the prosecutor, not once mentioning death. "Sirhan was entitled to the fair trial which he has received. He has no special claim to further preservation."

Those pleas first, then Judge Herbert V. Walker's instructions to conscientiously consider "whether this man should suffer the death penalty or shall be permitted to remain alive," set the Sirhan jury to its final task Monday.

After 2½ hours in the same room where they convicted Sirhan of first degree murder last week, the jurors adjourned for the night without a verdict in the penalty phase of the 15-week trial. They have only two choices: life or death.

Grant B. Cooper, who delivered the impassioned final plea for the 25-year-old Jordanian Arab, walked out of the courtroom shaking his head in dejection.

"I don't like it, I don't like it," he said. "The longer they stay out, the more I sweat. I think if they were going to give him life, they would have come in this afternoon."

John E. Howard, who spoke for the death penalty without direct reference to it, said "it's going to be closer than a hound's tooth. This jury is going to take a hard look." He would have worried, Howard said, about a quick verdict.

Sirhan, pale from 10 sunless months since the assassination June 5, appeared hollow-eyed and nervous as the case wound to its conclusion. He chewed gum, gnawed at his fingernails and drummed on the defense table.

Van Patten To Get 'Dear John'

CALEDONIA, (AP) — Sorrow was mingled with joy today as Spec. 5 Thomas H. Van Patten's parents welcomed him back from among the "missing."

Until last Thursday he had been a prisoner of the Viet Cong in Vietnam for 14 months.

But relatives didn't know whether he was dead or alive or a prisoner.

In television interviews that followed his escape from the enemy, the emaciated 21-year-old soldier said he was happily looking forward to his quick return home — and to marriage upon arrival.

But his parents carried with them to their meeting at the Glenview Naval Air Station outside Chicago, a "Dear John" letter from the girl he'd hoped to marry.

She has married another since Van Patten was reported missing in action Feb. 10, 1968.

Van Patten's father, Harry, confided to a newsman Monday that "We're taking his 'Dear John' letter with us, but please, please don't let him know what's happened until we tell him. He's going to be hurt bad."

Continue Talks On Calumet Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal mediators renewed efforts Monday to settle an eight-month-old strike of 1,200 workers against the Calumet copper mine and smelter in Calumet, Mich.

Dan Edwards of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and Robert G. Howlett, chairman of the Michigan Labor Mediation Board, were conducting the talks with the Calumet division of Universal Oil Products and the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers union.

The talks were moved here from Michigan, where both federal and state mediators had participated previously.

The steelworkers have rejected all wage offers so far as insufficient.

Milliken To Call Special Session

DETROIT (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has paved the way for a special fall session of the Michigan Legislature to consider major educational reform—including aid to nonpublic schools.

"I plan to be prepared in the early weeks of October to present a blueprint for educational reform including financing to the Michigan Legislature," Milliken told the Economic Club of Detroit Monday.

He said he would ask the Legislature "at long last...to come up with genuine educational reform. It is not enough simply to pour vast amounts of new money into an inadequate and inequitable system which we now have."

Milliken said he soon will announce appointments to a gov-

M&M Bridge Span Collapses

MARINETTE, Wis. (AP) — A 150-foot section of the old Milwaukee Road railroad bridge superstructure between Marinette and Menominee, Mich., collapsed into the swollen Menominee River Monday in high winds. No one was injured.

The bridge was no longer in use and the railway had been negotiating with the North Western Railway for use of the bridge.

The roadbed of the bridge had been removed, leaving the superstructure spanning the river between Marinette and an island in the river.

Part of the steel bridge, which was blocking water traffic in the channel, still showed above the surface late Monday.

Nixon Orders Complete Overhaul Of Tax System

N. Ireland May Get One Man, One Vote

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Northern Ireland's embattled prime minister, Terence O'Neill, was reported ready today to agree to the principle of "one man, one vote" in local elections in an attempt to calm the turbulent crisis.

Supporters of O'Neill who reported this said the concession would be accompanied by a postponement for at least a year of the local elections due in 1970.

At present the vote in local elections is confined to property owners and their wives, a system that the Roman Catholic minority contends keeps Protestant governments in power in towns where the Catholics have a numerical majority of the population.

Stone Barracks
The same voting system prevailed in the rest of the United Kingdom until 1948.

Rioters stoned two police barracks Monday night in Belfast, and threw flaming gasoline bombs in the streets, but British troops guarding key installations in Northern Ireland stayed out of sight.

Police scattered the crowd of about 1,000 and by midnight the city was quiet. There were no casualties.

More than 200 British soldiers were stationed at power plants, fuel depots and similar plants to guard against saboteurs. In London, Home Secretary James Callaghan stressed the troops would not be used to maintain order in the streets.

Nixon Told To Delay ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Sherman Cooper, the leading Republican critic of the administration's Safeguard program, says President Nixon should delay deployment of the antimissile system for a year and try for a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union.

"It is difficult to oppose the President and I hope that he might agree to take another year to see if we can get some kind of disarmament agreement with the Russians rather than pushing the matter to a vote now," the Kentucky senator said in an interview.

Cooper and other Safeguard critics—Republicans and Democrats alike—maintain that the Safeguard antiballistic missile—ABM—system might recharge the arms race between the two superpowers.

"The President has put us in the position of disagreeing with him on a matter dealing with the security of the country," Cooper said. "This is always difficult to do."

"But I think those of us who oppose deployment of the ABM at this time think as I do—that unless we make some move to put an end to this arms race it will accelerate out of all reason."

Washington To Hear NMU Job Corps Backers

MARQUETTE (AP) — A Marquette "Save the Job Corps" organization has been informed it will be given a hearing next Monday by the House Education and Labor Committee to protest closing of a Job Corps center on the Northern Michigan University Campus.

Rep. Carl Perkins, D - Ky., chairman of the House committee, wired confirmation of the date today from Washington.

The Rev. Glen Weber, a Catholic priest, is handling contributions to help defray expenses to the Marquette - to - Washington delegation, which also hopes to see Sens. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., and Rep. Philip Ruppe, R-Mich.

The Job Corps center at Northern Michigan is among several ordered closed immediately by the Nixon administration in an economic cutback. It has 225 women trainees, 70 per cent of them Negroes.

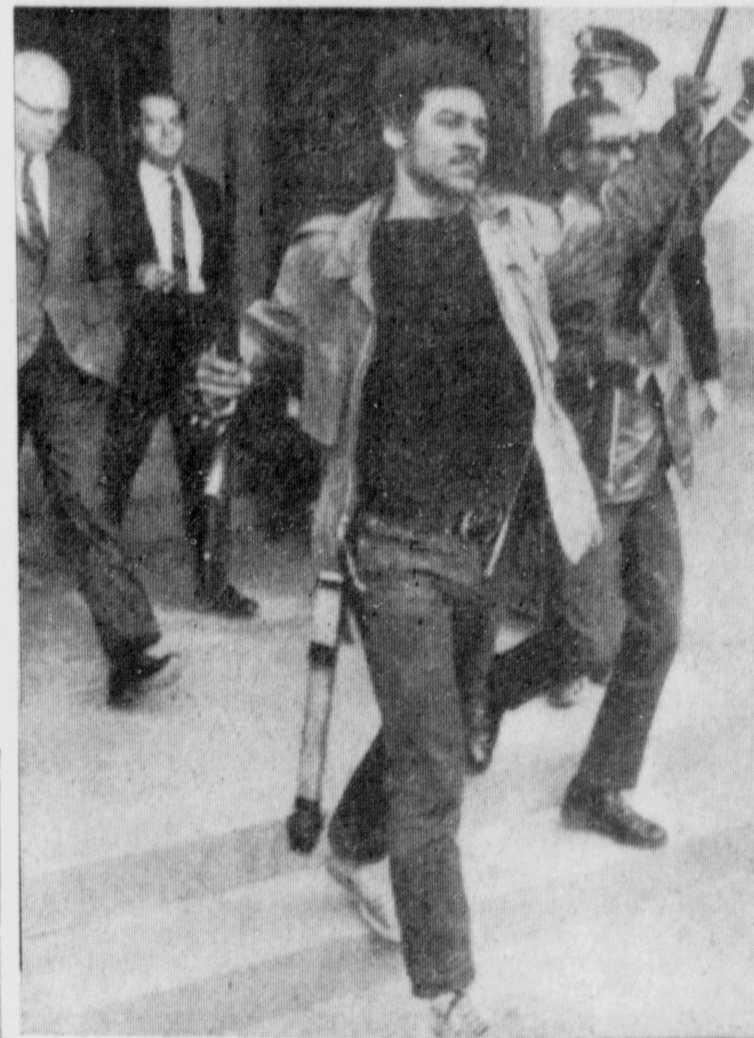

President John Jamrich of Northern Michigan said he is urging Washington to continue the center here until at least June 30.

In the forefront of groups leading a campaign aimed at retaining the center is the Friends of Black Students Association. The association's attempt to organize a student - strike to support its protest fizzled last Friday. Only 60 of Northern's more than 6,000 students participated in a campus demonstration.

Michigamme Man Killed In Vietnam

Student Sit-Ins Hit Ivy League

By The Associated Press
Sit-ins, strikes and other protests have spread to more than a dozen campuses around the nation, including five Ivy League universities. The protests usually focus on racial or military issues.

About 2,000 students at Yale University voted Monday night to bar the Reserve Officers Training Corps program from their New Haven, Conn., campus.

The resolution is not binding on the university, whose faculty and trustees recently voted to withdraw academic credit from the ROTC. Yale has 8,300 undergraduate and graduate students.

At Harvard University, members of Students for a Democratic Society and their supporters moved into the administration building for the second time in two weeks. The five-hour sit-in by 100 students ended quietly when the protesters left as the working day ended.

Ban ROTC
SDS' announced purpose was to stop work in the building, and Harvard officials sent secretaries home and stood about debating the militants. SDS called the "mill-in" after students voted Friday to end a week-long strike, aimed at the administration's use of police to end an April 9 sit-in.

The protesters want ROTC banned from campus. The Faculty of Liberal Arts and Sciences has voted to make the program an extracurricular activity.

At Princeton University, scattered fistfights broke out when about 100 members of SDS blockaded two Marine Corps recruits into a campus building.

recruits into a campus building. The officers were permitted to leave Clio Hall for lunch, but were prevented from returning. Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. remained in a "state of emergency" today, as tension of a demonstration by armed black militant students pervaded the campus.

About 1,100 faculty members decided Monday night that the weekend seizure of a campus building by armed members of the Afro-American Society made discussion of discipline problems from earlier demonstrations impossible.

Cornell President James A. Perkins banned firearms from campus and said disruptive demonstrations would no longer be tolerated.

Schweigert Gets New Title

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken today signed into law a bill giving the title of acting lieutenant governor to the president pro tem of the Senate when the office of lieutenant governor becomes vacant.

Sen. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, took over the title when Milliken moved up to governor with the resignation of former Gov. George Romney.

The new law provides that the acting lieutenant governor will be entitled to his regular vote in the Senate but cannot cast an additional vote to break a tie, as does the elected lieutenant governor.

Reds Welcome Husak

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's new Communist party chief, Gustav Husak, went to Moscow today, and his party's reform faction hoped he would return with some Soviet concessions.

Husak was welcomed at Moscow airport by Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin, President Nikolai Podgorny and other top officials. This red carpet treatment indicated the Kremlin's pleasure that the pro-Moscow Husak had replaced Alexander Dubcek.

Husak formally took over the party controls Monday from the reform leader and left Prague a few hours later to attend a summit meeting of Comecon, the Soviet bloc economic organization.

The Prague reformists hope that Husak's energetic efforts to please the Kremlin will result in Soviet approval of a substantial credit in dollars or some other convertible currency to help Czechoslovakia ease its economic troubles.

Alexander Dubcek

Gustav Husak

They also hope Moscow can be persuaded to cease publication of Zpravy, the Czech-language propaganda sheet which the Soviet occupation troops distribute. It is particularly hated by Czechoslovak students and other militants.

Though they realize there is little chance the occupation force will be withdrawn this year, the reformists are hopeful the Kremlin can be persuaded to move its troops to more isolated areas for the summer. Some of the garrisons now stationed in small towns around the country are a constant source of friction.

Communist sources in Moscow said the chief topic of discussion between Brezhnev and Husak was expected to be Husak's plans to strengthen party control over Czechoslovak life, as demanded by Moscow.

Congress Told Tax Proposals Plug Big Leaks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration spokesmen told Congress today President Nixon's wide-ranging tax reform proposals are aimed at quickly repairing pressing flaws in the system and more basic changes are planned.

Of equal importance to immediate reform, Treasury Under Secretary Charles E. Walker told the House Ways and Means Committee, are "basic structural changes that go beyond reform" which, however, must be approached more slowly.

He noted in his prepared testimony that the President has ordered a cellar-to-attic review of every aspect of the tax system to point up the areas where simplification—a major goal—may be possible.

First Stage
Walker and Edwin S. Cohen, assistant secretary of the Treasury for tax policy, repeatedly used terms such as "interim" and "first stage" to describe the lengthy list of changes Nixon outlined in the tax message he sent Monday to Capitol Hill.

"The most critical problems, which we believe should be dealt with promptly," Cohen said, "are first, maintaining confidence in the tax structure by curbing the excessive use of tax preferences by some wealthy taxpayers and, second, removing the burden of the income tax from those who are below the poverty level."

Overall, Treasury officials said, revenue losses and gains will cancel each other out at roughly $4 billion each, though there should be a net increase in receipts after the first two years.

Surplus Cut
The big revenue-boosting items, they said, will be the repeal of the 7 per cent investment tax credit, tightening up on use of "tax preferences" by high-income taxpayers to shield much of their income from taxation, and correction of a lengthy list of abuses.

On the other side will be the revenue lost by cutting the present 10 per cent income tax surcharge to 5 per cent next Jan. 1, elimination of income taxes for single persons and families earning less than $3,500 a year, revenue-sharing with states and local governments and tax incentives to bring more businesses and privately run manpower training programs into poverty areas.

Some of the changes are designed to take effect immediately, others by stages, the Treasury officials said. Action on revenue-sharing and the tax incentives programs would not begin for at least a year, they said.

Limit Deduction
Once the program ending federal taxation of those below the $3,500 line is fully operative, they said, the cost will be $665 million a year.

Another revenue-loser, liberalizing income tax deductions for moving expenses, would carry a price tag of $110 million this year and $100 million a year thereafter.

The limit on deductions for charitable contributions, currently 30 per cent of income for all but a few taxpayers, would be raised to 50 per cent at an annual cost in lost revenue of $10 million.

The LTP plan would tax income now exempted because of allowances for accelerated depreciation on real estate, certain farm losses and intangible drilling expenses in the oil industry.

Designed to be phased in over a three-year period the LTP reform would eventually bring in $80 million a year, according to Treasury estimates.

An even bigger revenue boost, $500 million a year, would result from requiring a taxpayer with more than $10,000 in tax preferences to allocate his itemized deductions between taxed and untaxed income.

Reaction
The President's reform recommendations bought generally favorable initial reaction in Congress, although the proposal to repeal the investment tax credit

Syrup Making Is Down From Norm

By LYNN BELLEFEUIL
Maple syrup season is drawing to a close with this year's production lagging behind normal.

The two week cold spell before Easter virtually halted sap flow and syrup making activity, and the accompanying high winds damaged many of the sap-sacks, so popular in this area. A lot of sap was lost and damages in some areas ran as high as 20 per cent, far exceeding the number of replacement bags usually kept on hand.

The warm weather following Easter hasn't helped much, either, since it has generally lacked the freezing nights which trigger the rise of sap from the roots.

Soon all the frost will be out of the ground and the leaves will begin to bud, bringing a final halt to syrup production. Snow is still on the ground in some wooded areas. Here in the Felch area the syrup producers are hanging on, hoping for a late run.

"You have to expect some bad days," said Roger Stebbins of LaBranche. "I've been in the maple syrup business since 1945, and I've seen only one perfect season when it ran well for 15 days."

"It's got to freeze again before the trees bud," Roger insists. "We get killing frosts in July around here. Surely in April. . ."

4-H Club Hold Achievement Day

The Clever Clover and Shining Shamrock 4-H Clubs of Escanaba held their local achievement program on Sunday at the Delta County building.

Talent selections from My Fair Lady, which had been one of the winners in the county talent show, were presented in advance of the modeling. Jayne Heirman, Kathi Backlund and Carol Christiansen sang; and other songs were sung by girls of the Clever Clover Club.

In the style show the girls modeled clothing they had made in their winter projects. Certificates and pins were presented.

Refreshments followed the program, which was attended by relatives and friends of the club members.

Kiwanis Hears Marine Veteran

Richard Tudor, former combat correspondent with the U.S. Marine Corps in Vietnam, related his experiences to the Kiwanis Club on Monday and also played tapes which he had recorded in his tour of duty. Tudor, also a veteran of the Korean war, is now a special assistant with the U.S. Forest Service.

He reported that information received back in the United States is correct, although an accurate count of the enemy dead is difficult as bodies of the dead are buried in mass graves.

There are more combat correspondents in Vietnam than have ever worked in any other war, he said. Civilian correspondents are not allowed to go into the battlefield because of the tremendous mortality rate. This helps also in the correctness of reports, as military correspondents have a better chance for factual information, Tudor added.

In his tapes, Tudor interviewed a corpsman who just delivered a baby to a Vietnamese woman while hovering in a helicopter. Another interview was with a helicopter pilot who was hit in the heart area by an armor piercing bullet, yet didn't know that he was hit until the spent round rolled down his sleeve to the floor of the craft. He was protected by a new bulletproof plastic shield.

The Viet Cong are especially hard to find because of their great underground complexes, Tudor said. Also, the infiltration is so great that no one can tell the enemy from the friendly people. The precision bombing which is being carried on is fantastic, he reported.

Improvement Of Highway U.S. 2 Goal Of Council

The Michigan U.S. 2 Improvement Council will meet at the Iron Inn, Iron River at 1:30 p.m. (CST) Thursday, April 24.

There will be a report from a committee that met with Gov. Milliken and state highway officials in efforts to bring improvements and proper maintenance of U.S. 2 across the Upper Peninsula until a full four-lane highway is achieved.

Officers of the Council are William A. Asselin of Norway, Leo H. DeMars, vice chairman, Manistique; and Oswald Vispi, secretary-treasurer, Kingsford.

The discussion and actions will center around the Council's declaration that:

"We need a full four-lane highway U.S. 2 along its present route, where people are, where the traveler wants to go, where industry is, where the developed services are, and where the recreational areas abound."

Members of the Council include committees from the various counties including William J. Karas, Delta chairman; Emmett Vallier, Mackinac chairman; Russell Tennant, Schoolcraft chairman; and Russell Gustafson, Menominee chairman.

Evaluate Schools With Statewide Testing: Deeb

LANSING (AP) — A member of the State Board of Education Monday urged that "the painful process" of evaluating schools begin immediately and sought support for his proposal to assess the quality of the state's education programs.

"We blame the children for their failure, not the school," said Michael Deeb of Highland Park, "and on we go, smugly content that society is doing its best on their behalf."

"If the system does not work," Deeb added, "it has to be changed, not perpetuated by half truths and pleas that more money will solve all."

Deeb's proposal would call for school districts to provide completed but unscored tests to the State Department of Education by the first Monday of March each year.

The tests would measure individual and group progress in reading, math, written and oral language skills at the ends of grades 3, 6, 9 and 12.

Results of the assessments would be public information.

The State Department of Education also has proposed an assessment plan, which Deeb said, would take an estimated 20 months before first returns would be in.

The department plan also would be given on a random basis, "so there would be very little way of accountability," he said.

"My system would simply list school districts involved and the results, so all could see and compare," Deeb added.

"If parents are ever going to be able to participate in planning, decision making or responsible collective activity, they must have information."

Public Sentiment To Decide Split In Bond Formula

LANSING (AP) — The House and Senate Conservation Committees plan to tap the public sentiment before recommending a formula to split the $100 million in recreation bond funds approved by voters last November.

Senate committee Chairman Gordon Rockwell, R-Mount Morris, said four public hearings would be held on three vastly differing formulas pending in the Legislature.

The joint committee hearings, aimed at finding a public consensus on the controversial question, are set for Detroit April 28, Traverse City May 2, Escanaba May 3, and Grand Rapids May 5.

Rockwell said he hoped a bill would be reported from committee May 7, two days before the deadline.

The Legislature should approach the problem on the basis of "what's the best for most people," Rockwell said, not on "whether we promised a certain number."

Urban Cut

Gov. William Milliken has urged a 30-30-40 split, with a large portion of the money earmarked for urban areas.

Critics maintain, however, that voters approved the bond issue because they believed the money would be divided on a 70-30 basis, with more funds going to outstate areas.

Rockwell, chief sponsor of a measure setting up a 70-30 formula, said he was not committed to that idea. "I feel we should look at all of them," he said. "I don't think we should commit ourselves so early."

Rockwell added that he "wonders whether the people favor generally" Milliken's proposal. "But if we're thinking in terms of solving riot problems urban areas are where we need the money," he said.

Split Or Die Club

Rep. Thomas J. Anderson, D-Southgate, chairman of the House Conservation Committee, is among chief proponents of the formula that would allocate $70 million to the state Department of Natural Resources for state projects and $30 million of the "70-30 split or die club."

Milliken's formula is outlined in a second proposal, specifying $30 million of the money be allocated to counties on a per capita basis, $30 million to counties with populations over 100,000 and $40 million for state projects.

A third proposal would give $80 million to local communities and $20 million to the state.

Rockwell said the decision to hold public hearings came after lawmakers discussed the question with representatives of the governor's office — "Who didn't approve"—as well as the state Department of Natural Resources, the state Chamber of Commerce and the Michigan United Conservation Club.

Parents Must Decide On Minis

DETROIT (AP) — Senior high school principals in Detroit have decided to toss the problem of the miniskirt back to the parents.

"The senior high school principals have agreed that dress is a matter for parents and not the schools," said Robert Baumgartner, principal of Detroit's Cass Technical High School. "Students can wear whatever their parents permit as long as it is not disturbing to the classroom."

Baumgartner said the action was taken in the absence of a citywide directive from the board of education. He did not offer a definition, however, of what might be disturbing in a classroom.

Michigan's First

Michigan is the first state in the union to move toward banning the sale of the pesticide DDT.

The evidence that this chemical persists in potency after it has killed the pests for which it is intended and then infects fish and other wildlife — and possibly humans — becomes ominous.

Michigan's health guardians and conservationists have been concerned about DDT for years and the public has had a dramatic introduction to the scare in the seizure of 22,000 pounds of coho salmon enroute to family dinner tables because it carried a dangerous level of DDT and its even more toxic relative, dieldrin.

It is difficult for the layman to gauge the actual danger in chemicals like DDT because the effect is not immediate and it is subject to interpretations that tend to be overprotective (from the chemical industry) or overly emotional (from conservationists).

But the mounting evidence against DDT should rally the public in support of the Michigan Agriculture Commission in starting the legal process to prohibit the sale of the insecticide in Michigan. Michigan State University kicked it out of the cowbarns years ago.

The U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries reports that there has been no measurable change in pesticide residue levels in Lake Michigan fish since 1965, including coho salmon. It adds that there is little indication that coho salmon take up DDT into their bodies while they are in the streams in which they spawn.

The inference here is that they take up the residual pesticide in the lake, feeding on aquatic life which has absorbed it.

Sweden is the first nation to totally ban DDT. In this country it seems altogether likely that other states will follow the lead of Michigan in banning DDT. We are at present in the phase of inquiry that has established DDT as the likely villain in the fish hatcheries and as a threat to wildlife. From this it is a natural leap to concern about the transmission of the accumulated residual pesticides to humans who eat the tainted fish.

Dr. Howard Johnson, Michigan State University scientist, reports that DDT proved a killer among fry (tiny fish) hatched from eggs of Lake Michigan coho salmon. The biological significance of pesticide residues accumulated in fish tissues is poorly understood, he said.

A problem of immediate concern is the potential effect of organochlorine pesticides on reproduction in fishes. Studies in 1967 and 1968 showed DDT concentrations in Lake Michigan coho salmon eggs were three to five times higher than those from Lake Superior and 60 times higher than in fish eggs from Oregon.

A mortality syndrome (loss of equilibrium, erratic swimming and prolonged convulsions) was observed in all groups of eggs from Lake Michigan.

DDT-induced deaths among coho fry amount to 11 per cent, collectively, in Michigan hatcheries, and for Lake Michigan source groups mortality ranged as high as 73 per cent. No evidence of the symptoms was observed in Lake Superior and Oregon source egg groups.

The thing which we appear to be observing here is the greater prevalence of DDT in waters (and fish) which have been more subjected to pollution by use of the pesticide when it can be drained or blown into them.

The National Wildlife Federation says "the wholesale and indiscriminate use of DDT has contaminated every corner of the world and is blamed for drastic reductions in certain wildlife populations. Birds of prey at the top of the natural food chain, such as falcons, eagles and ospreys are believed to be threatened with total extinction."

Experiments with laboratory animals, says the Wildlife Federation, "have revealed that DDT nullifies the effect of lifesaving antibiotics, incites cancer, affects sex hormones, and, in large doses, attacks the central nervous system. Fear mounts in the scientific community that DDT may have similar effects on humans."

The chemical industry has retorted that DDT opponents are "anti-social, neurotic and preoccupied with sexual potency." We Simple Simon non-scientists cannot personally make a determination of truth in the matter, and must be guided by scientist-counseled officials charged with our safety.

They are now saying that DDT and related chlorinated hydrocarbons remain toxic for many years after application and accumulate in increasingly heavy quantities as they are passed through the natural food chain. It is not sensible to use DDT because it is a "cheap" pesticide when there are other chemicals which will serve and which will not pose DDT's threat to fish and wildlife, and possibly even to humans.

British MP Warns On Easy Abortions

LANSING — A member of Britain's Parliament warned a legislative committee that passage of an easy abortion law could lead to a campaign for enactment of "mercy killing" legislation.

Mrs. Jill Knight, M. P., testifying at a public hearing on two abortion bills being considered by the Michigan Senate, said a campaign has been started in England to legalize "mercy killing."

"Great Britain's new easy abortion law was in effect less than a year when a major campaign was launched to win enactment of a voluntary euthanasia bill permitting doctors to perform 'mercy killings' under certain circumstances," Mrs. Knight said.

"Although the 'mercy killing' proposal was defeated, its supporters are continuing their efforts to pass this bill."

"I would predict that if Michigan or any state passes an easy abortion bill, it can expect similar efforts will be made to allow doctors to snuff out the lives of patients who consent."

"Once the principle has been accepted that innocent human life may be destroyed, there is nothing to prevent its extension to euthanasia, infanticide and perhaps other cases as well. That is where easy abortion laws can lead."

Mrs. Knight said she is "deeply ashamed" to report that Britain has become the "abortion capital of the Western world" since the barriers were removed.

The new law, she said, has created tremendous new problems for England's medical profession and has not reduced the number of illegal abortions.

"The experience of every country that has legalized abortion is that subsequently the number of illegal abortions rise at the same rate as the number of legal abortions increase and this is happening in England," she said.

"As requests for abortions have skyrocketed in Britain, the morale and ethics of the whole medical and nursing profession are being debased," she said. "Medical facilities are strained. Necessary interviews by physicians, most of whom are fortunately conscientious, take so much of the doctor's time that his ordinary patients must suffer as a result."

"I find that more and more conscientious medical men—surgeons and the heads of gynecological departments in our hospitals—are under heavy and persistent temptation to opt out of the abortion field altogether."

"They simply tell patients they do not do abortions. This is because of the very great amount of time involved in abortion cases if the surgeon is to satisfy his conscience that the woman requesting the abortion is not doing it for selfish and irresponsible reasons."

"We were told abortion would take up less time of the medical profession than childbirth but the exact opposite is true," she added.

The result, Mrs. Knight said, is that "a number of 'abortion mills' have been established in England that specialize in quick abortion and no questions asked."

"Our law is turning out to be a license to print dirty money, for all—or almost all—transactions are in cash and the welfare of the patient counts for nothing, directly in opposition to all the fine traditions of medicine."

Mrs. Knight said she thinks "many members of Britain's Parliament who voted for our easy abortion law now wish they had not done so."

"They now realize that once you put the full weight of your constitution behind abortion by legalizing it, you are saying it is socially O.K. and you remove the stigma that has previously been attached to having an abortion."

Once legislative barriers are dropped and abortion becomes socially acceptable, she said, the demand increases. More than 150,000 women have requested an abortion in England since the new law took effect a year ago.

"Many women who would have passed through a real but temporary stage of depression in early pregnancy and gone on to have and love their baby are thus conditioned to see abortion as a way out," Mrs. Knight said.

Mrs. Knight said Britain had about 10,000 legal abortions a year before it adopted its easy abortion law.

"In the first eight months under the new law there were 22,256 legal abortions, and the total in the first year will reach at least 35,000 and perhaps as many as 50,000," she said.

"Many doctors are concerned because they contend this is not the type of practice they chose or were trained for," she said. "They argue that medicine is devoted to the preservation of life, not to its destruction."

"A movement is underway to tighten up our abortion law but unfortunately it will be several years before any amendment to the law is feasible."

Mrs. Knight, a Conservative member of the House of Commons from the Edgbaston Division of Birmingham since 1966, came to the U.S. to attend a medical conference in Chicago. She was invited to testify before the Senate Committee on Health, Social Services and Retirement by the Michigan Committee for Social Legislation (MCSL) and was introduced by Senator Jerome T. Hart (D-Saginaw), an opponent of easy abortion legislation.

Mrs. Knight, who did freelance radio and television work and some script writing before her marriage, writes a weekly column for the Birmingham Mail and is a frequent broadcaster on political and discussion programs.

Creed Of Hate Is Profitable Career

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the anomalies of American life is that it is sometimes very profitable indeed—financially—to be a shouting, cursing, rabble-rousing enemy of The Establishment.

For some time now, men studying the most violent of the campus confrontations have noted that time and again the same men and women are present as organizers and agit-prop leaders. These inevitably seem to have the funds they need.

The same ability to come by money is seen among some men who travel from slum to slum preaching violence and riots.

Because of this coincidence, detailed studies are being undertaken to determine how these promoters secure the sizable amounts of money that some of them seem to spend.

These studies have already brought some curious facts to light.

Take the case of Stokely Carmichael, who in 1967 moved from slum to slum preaching a doctrine of hate, violence, burning and killing.

Carmichael spoke at one Texas university for a $5,000 fee, at another for $2,500. For a round of appearances in Honolulu he was paid $1,000. A talk in Chicago netted him $500. Students at a university in Massachusetts paid Carmichael $1,000 for a talk.

For periods in 1967, Carmichael spoke from three to four times a week. In the first five months of that year he spoke at more than 40 colleges for fees which frequently ran from $500 to $1,500 and more. On one occasion at least, as noted above, he drew $5,000.

Or take Eldridge Cleaver, who also has preached a doctrine of hate.

Cleaver, a leader of the Black Panthers and notorious for his assaults on women, has received upward of $75,000 for his writings.

In a number of universities, student hate groups have captured control of student association funds, used them as pay-offs for their "troops."

Some of these men have acquired an expertise in securing funds from a wide variety of student clubs and organizations.

There is a fourth source of funds for the professional student activist and "burn, baby, burn" racial hater.

Sizable amounts of money in total are donated by wealthy, well-to-do and upper-middle-class men and women to activists who want to "tear the system down," sometimes with no idea of what they want in its place.

Some of the donors are themselves members of The Establishment and personally hold positions of considered political, economic or social power. Others have inherited fortunes, big or small.

Some among the activist groups have found a way to gain funds for themselves and their followers in the loose controls resulting from the skyrocketing growth of government and private experimental social programs.

It is now quite clear from the studies to date that some participants have profited considerably from the campus and slum riots which have caused disruption and suffering for so many.

This is in no way to imply that any except a small minority of students and slum rioters falls in this category. This column is about a hard core of rather cynical men.

Contract Bridge

You win more points because of the opponents' mistakes than by good bidding or play of your own. If you concentrate on making fewer errors than the opposition, you'll usually come out all right.

Naturally, anything you can do to induce an error by the enemy is a step in the right direction. That's one reason preemptive bids are so often effective. They eat up valuable bidding space otherwise available to the opponents for the exchange of information.

Look at the effect of South's three spade bid in this hand. He certainly didn't have much for his venture into space—2 points, to be exact—but he achieved a fine result.

The preempt bid West on the spot. His three notrump bid was surely reasonable, but over it North bid four spades. Now East was up against it. He naturally thought there might be a game in one of his three suits, but he couldn't tell which. So, rather than risk a disaster by selecting the wrong suit, he tried to compromise by doubling.

West led a club, then shifted to the queen of hearts. Declarer ducked and won the next heart lead with the ace.

It was clear from the bidding that West had the king of spades, so South had to come to his hand for a trump finesse. He couldn't afford a heart lead, since he knew East would win the heart and lead still another one, so he made the sparkling return of the king of diamonds from dummy.

West took the ace and quite properly returned a club. Dummy ruffed and played the jack of diamonds. South trumping East's queen. Two trump leads caught West's king, and the nine of diamonds return trapped the ten and eight simultaneously to establish dummy's seven as a trick — on which declarer discarded his losing heart.

So South made four spades doubled in a well-played hand. True, East-West could have made five clubs, but they never did find the suit — due to the preemptive bid.

Ann Landers

Can't Comprehend New Era Of Nudity

Dear Ann Landers: I have the feeling that I've fallen asleep and awakened in a strange new world. I'm not an old woman, Ann. I'm 42. Yet I am totally unable to accept the weird changes in our society that are going almost unnoticed.

Here is a quote from a UPI story: "More than two dozen students, one a coed, streaked through College Park campus wearing only sneakers. The campus daily reported that the woman was about five-feet-six-inches tall, brown haired and flat chested. One of the males in the pack said he was responding to a challenge from a friend. Four students said they took up jaybird jogging because they were bored. 'Nobody studies any more,' was the explanation. One bashful runner was wearing a ski mask. He said, 'I'd hate for my parents to find out about this. They wouldn't understand.'

"Four of the sprinters who were freshmen said it was an impersonal way to be nude—that after a while nobody even looked at anybody else. The coed giggled and added, 'Nakedness can be fun.'"

What do you have to say about this, Ann Landers?—Maryland My Maryland

Dear Mary: Nakedness can also be against the law. It is called "indecent exposure."

Of course these kids are cuckoo. And the statement, "Nobody studies any more," is evidence. Happily this nutty element represents a small segment of the student body. The segment that flunks out.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting so sick and tired of

No Major Economies In Sight For Taxpayers

County Govt. Changing With Its Smaller Board

By JEAN WORTH

The old 27-man Delta County Board of Supervisors was "headless" and low in efficiency, Supervisor Phil Miron of Ford River told the Delta County Study Committee at the Delta County Building Monday night, and the new 5-man board has no head either, but it meets more often and this should tend to make it more efficient.

Phil Miron

The county board is organized, with a chairman and vice chairman (the latter office filled by Miron) and committees and a clerk, but Miron was speaking of it being "headless" in the sense of lacking a manager or overall executive with executive power.

"I would prefer county home rule," said Miron, endorsing local government reform which would restructure county government to end the autonomy of its departments and give it a responsible overall command.

Former representative Einar Erlandsen, a member of the county study group, said that the townships oppose home rule.

Good Officers

Miron said that Delta County had been fortunate in the quality of the county officers it has elected, but said the system of selection permits "taking any man from the street and running him for office," regardless of his qualifications or lack of them.

He said that before reapportionment and reduction of the board from 27 men (14 township supervisors and the rest from the cities of Escanaba and Gladstone) the board had to meet only twice a year, in April to organize and in October to budget for the next year, but that usually it met four times a year.

"The trouble," he said was that we had 8 strong men and the others were in minor roles and didn't know the score. Now the board (of 5) meets twice a month on the 1st and 3rd Tuesdays and committees meet in between, so that there's a meeting about every week, although the board must meet in regular meetings to take official action.

Some Confusion

"I like the 5 man board, although I would have preferred 7 or 9 members. Fortunately, we have only one new member and he is learning very quickly."

"Members of the key committees like Finance, Equalization and Claims & Accounts have to be board members, but we're calling in laymen to help with personnel and other board business."

Asked if supervisors representing the new population districts which cut across familiar city ward and rural township lines were identified and used by constituents in the districts, Miron said "The people are a little confused about the new board (in this matter of representation). They call us about things and we have to tell them that there are still supervisors in each of the townships and to see them about township business."

"Stanley Dominic, the supervisor in East Delta, was getting quite a few calls because he represents 7 or 8 townships on the board, but it has eased off. Most of the letters that the new board gets from the citizens are about roads-and-bridges or conservation."

Townships To Stay

Asked if he thought local government is moving to eliminate the township supervisor (who no longer is a member of the county board of supervisors) Miron said no. "He is still the township manager and township tax assessor," said Miron "and that is the cheapest type of local government."

"Look at Wells Township! It has $4 million more assessed valuation than the City of Gladstone and it doesn't have to have any police force, or garbage collection or other city services that cost a lot of money."

"Since 1940 property has been going up in tax valuation and city government has been getting more and more costly. Ford River Township used to have 7 schools and now it has one, but it is no cheaper. The state has fixed a minimum number of mills that you must levy locally for education to get full state aid and it increases the disparity between the poor districts and rich ones.

More State Control

Joseph Heimman, Michigan State University consultant to the committee, said that Wells Township, Marquette County has $80,000 tax valuation behind each of its school children, compared with $12,152 in the Escanaba Area School District. But the statistic is not meaningful because Wells has so very few school children.

Do the troubled schools appear to be moving toward more state control? Miron thought so. He said that overall interest of local government, in which the county and schools are the major rivals for division of the 15-mill general property tax, calls for a better method than the present system of allocating the 15 mills between county, schools and townships, with schools required to ask the voters for operating expenses and building needs beyond their share of the 15 mills.

Budget Only Control

"The board's responsibility is the financing of the county government," said Miron. "It can't hire or fire people. The only thing we supervisors are concerned with is paying them—and some of our pay is too low; some U. P. counties pay more than we do. (County employment is desirable despite low pay because of the 35 hour work week, lots of holidays, etc.)

"The budget (appropriations from taxes to run county government) is our only control over county departments." (County departments asked $714,000 for next year, the board added in some extra items like kitchen improvement at Pinecrest Medicare Facility and came up with a total of $832,000. It may mean a tax increase for county government despite increased valuation. The county got 5.2 mills of the 15 this year, appears to need over 7 mills to balance next year's county budget.)

Salmon Move Out Of Creek

Coho salmon planted last Wednesday in the Haymeadow Creek north of Rapid River already have begun to move out into Little Bay de Noc.

Cliff Long, Escanaba district fish biologist, said the Dept. of Natural Resources has two small nets set near the mouth of the Whitefish River and the first small salmon was taken in the nets Friday — two days after 100,000 smolts were released in the tributary stream of the Whitefish River.

Eleven more cohos were taken in the nets Saturday with six taken Sunday.

The nets were set to allow the department to check on the progress of the salmon which were released.

Long said only a very small percentage of the cohos moving out of the Whitefish River into Little Bay de Noc would be caught in the department nets.

Salmon released last week are expected to move through Little Bay de Noc into Lake Michigan, returning to the Haymeadow Creek to spawn as adults in the fall of 1970. The first spawning run of adult salmon to the area is expected this fall from the release made in the spring of 1968.

A number of dead salmon were noted along the banks of the Haymeadow Creek near the release site this weekend, but no determination of the number or cause of their death has been made as yet.

Long said a certain loss could be expected in transporting the fish from the Oden Hatchery south of Mackinaw City to the release site. Observations also indicated that some of the salmon could have become "landlocked" out of the banks of the creek when the water level declined in the few days after the release.

Ping-Ponged Suspect Freed

DETROIT (AP) — After being shuffled back and forth between the Wayne County Jail and state hospitals, waiting for a murder trial that never came, James Earl Gillom was freed Monday at the request of the prosecution.

"I don't know whether to cry or start laughing," Gillom said as he was released.

"It seemed like they put me on the back shelf and forgot me. They been ping-ponging me around for a long time."

The 52-year-old Gillom watched the six-minute hearing without a word, as the prosecution noted a court psychiatrist found last year that Gillom was psychotic at the time he allegedly committed a murder in 1963. During the long course of being sent from the jail to various state hospitals, Gillom was ruled mentally incompetent to stand trial three times and unable to stand trial on three other occasions.

Gillom says he's not bitter about the time he spent in prison.

"It made me stop and think about life and I realized I should have been closer to the church. I think it helped me a whole lot," he said.

Gillom said he had been reading the newspaper want ads for a few days before he was released from jail.

"I'm going to get me a job and go to work and try to be a man — a real man. And I'm going to live as straight as I possibly can," he promised.

Big Question On New Stadium

Do Tigers, Lions Want To Move?

LANSING (AP)—The question of a new sports stadium depends as much on whether the likely principal tenants—the Detroit Tigers baseball team and the football Lions—really want it as on where it should be built, according to a suburban legislator.

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, who says he favors a Detroit site, told the House State Affairs Committee Monday, "the prosperity of the hub city" is a major question in building a stadium.

"In my opinion, the stadium may well signal the fate of metropolitan cooperation," Levin said.

But an even more critical question, he told newsmen later, must be directed to Tigers owner John Fetzer and William Clay Ford, owner of the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Create Authority
"Do they want to move?" Levin asked.

The hearing solicited views on two House bills.

One calls for creation of an authority, patterned after the Mackinac Bridge Authority, to build and operate a stadium. The other would impose a tax of up to 10 per cent on ticket sales for professional sports events in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties, with receipts paying of 40-year revenue bonds to build the sports complex.

Testimony indicated more certain views about where to build than about the financial and legal details of who should pay how much to whom for what.

No Position
Dennis L. Gibson, speaking for the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, said his group officially has "no position" on the two House bills. He said the chamber may seek legislation later but has not studied either bill.

The chamber does, however, endorse development of a complex "on the 80-acre site west of Cobo Hall," Gibson said.

E.J. Keirns, State Fair general manager, and Delmont Chapman, chairman of the State Fair Authority, both backed the Detroit Fair Grounds site on North Woodward Avenue near Eight-Mile Road.

"There's a question in our mind whether the stadium authority bill (introduced in January by Rep. Arthur Law, D-Pontiac, is timely," said Keirns. "We think any plan needs feasibility studies."

Chapman said the proposed 10 per cent tax on sports tickets is "a fair, legitimate way to raise some funds."

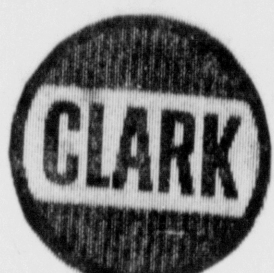

Revenues from the proposed ticket tax were estimated at $2.6 million by Rep. John Bennett, D-Detroit, a sponsor of the bill.

No Welfare Residency Rule To Cost Michigan

LANSING (AP) — A spokesman for the Michigan Department of Social Services today said the U.S. Supreme Court decision invalidating state residency requirements for welfare aid "will have a considerable impact on Michigan."

Michigan, in common with many other states, now has a requirement of one year of residence before welfare aid can be received, said Thomas Cook, associate director of the Bureau of Family Services.

Exceptions are made for emergency needs, he said. In many such cases, the aid recipients are encouraged to return to their home states.

"Michigan is one of the higher payment states for welfare," Cook said. "So we could expect a great deal of migration from some of the lower paying states, such as Alabama or Mississippi."

Congress To'd Tax Proposals Plug Big Leaks

generated some criticism. House Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said he wanted to check the details before making a definite judgment, but a first reading indicates "it seems to be pretty consistent with good Democratic policies."

Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York said the repeal of the investment credit, which allows businesses to deduct 7 per cent of what they spend in new equipment and plants from tax payments, could result in an economic recession. He said the proposals "will be strictly a Republican-Democratic fight," since GOP members generally favor extending the credit, while Democrats are opposed on grounds it is fueling inflation.

Another Republican, Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate GOP leader, also was unenthusiastic about repealing the tax credit. However, not all the criticism came from Republicans. Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, a Democratic member of the Senate Finance Committee, said: "As far as I am concerned, I would like to expand the 7 per cent credit and make it available for retraining of skilled workers. The shortage of skilled labor is one of our most pressing problems."

However, the President got a better reception regarding the aims if not the details of his other proposals.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield endorsed the surtax reduction as "an objective we would all like to achieve."

Pennsylvania's Hugh Scott, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said Nixon has proposed "genuine tax relief" and will get wholehearted backing from GOP members in Congress.

The only thing that could avert this, Cook said, would be federal action to equalize the level of payments among the states.

Otherwise, he said, the decision will have "a considerable impact on Michigan."

"I couldn't possibly say now how much it would amount to in dollars or in numbers of cases," Cook added.

Cook said Michigan will be able to save on money it now pays out to welfare recipients who move to other states. Their payments are continued until they meet residency requirements in the other states, he explained.

Previously, Cook noted, Michigan had a five-year residency requirement for old age assistance. This now has been reduced to one year—the same as for other types of assistance.

Cancer Crusade 'A Little Ahead' Over Last Year

John LaBranche, chairman of the Delta County Cancer Crusade, reported today that the crusade is progressing well and is "a little ahead" of last year's campaign at a comparable date. "Many of the residential workers have not reported, but they have the rest of the month to complete their area," LaBranche said.

LaBranche also said that he was in error when he stated in a recent news article that all union funds donated were not individual donations by union members. Local 110 of the Pulp & Sulphite workers union, each year since 1943 has donated a sizable sum to the Cancer Crusade as well as many other worthwhile charities, LaBranche said.

"Crusade workers, however, do not have any way of knowing and might be asking them to give twice," he added. "As far as we know, this is the only union that handles donations this way."

This year the Bark River area and Bark River Township will be canvassed by the Women's Auxiliary of the Rheaume Knaut American Legion Post. "They have helped in the past and the Cancer Society is confident they will again meet with success," LaBranche said.

Hare Approves Safety Merger

LANSING (AP) — Secretary of State James Hare has said he will not oppose a move by Gov. William Milliken to combine the State Safety Commission and the Office of Highway Safety Planning under State Police.

But he said he hopes the "fiscal integrity" of the two agencies will be preserved.

"As chairman of the State Safety Commission for the past 15 years, I feel most strongly about the restoration of funds to that operation so it can do the job for which it was intended when created more than 25 years ago," Hare said.

Hare said he favors an appropriation of $51,000 "to get the commission going again after a series of lean and hungry years without proper funding or staffing."

The secretary of state said he also opposes any cuts in the budget of the Office of Highway Safety Planning.

"There's a big safety job to be done in Michigan," Hare said. "We need all the official agencies, groups and individuals working in concert to stem the tide against our No. 1 problem—traffic accidents."

"They bear the names of three Michigan banks and are imprinted: 'Chevrolet Motor Division, General Motors Corp., Flint Assembly.' They also bear the imprint: 'Not good for more than $500.'"

The checks are numbered 596,001 through 599,000.

Cindy With 4-H At U.S. Meet

Five Michigan youths are representing the 97,000 participants in the state's 4-H Youth Programs at the 1969 National 4-H Conference in Washington, D. C., this week.

They include Cindy LaFleur, 1724 Montana Ave., Gladstone, who has an outstanding record of work in teen leadership, community service projects, and recreational and entertainment events.

The five Michigan delegates joined 220 other young people at the annual conference on leadership training and citizenship. These teen delegates represent a variety of cultural, racial and economic backgrounds as well as the rural and urban mix among the nation's 3.5 million 4-H members.

Clifford Hardin, Secretary of Agriculture, gave the keynote speech on Monday, and on Thursday delegates will visit with their Congressional representatives. The Michigan delegation will also meet with Sen. Robert Griffin.

An Eisenhower Memorial Service will be held Friday. The late President Eisenhower opened the National 4-H Center in Washington, D. C., 10 years ago this spring.

Throughout the week delegates are studying and discussing community action, international understanding, improved nutrition, drug problems, hunger in America and other challenges facing today's youth.

Pesticide Scare Won't Bother Trout Anglers

LANSING (AP) — The pesticide scare isn't likely to frighten any of Michigan's fanatic trout fishermen away from their favorite lakes and streams this weekend.

That's the thinking of fish experts in the state Department of Natural Resources, including Dave Gorgeson, trout and salmon specialist.

"We won't really be able to tell until we can get a pretty good check on license sales—around the middle of the year," Borgeson said.

Briefly Told

Gladstone City Police issued traffic citations to Eugene Noblet, 1221 Minnesota Ave., for failure to stop for a stop sign, and to Greg Begovac, Rte. 1, Rapid River, for no operator's license.

"But my guess is the trout fishermen will be out as usual on opening day."

Low Count

The regular season for Brook, rainbow and lake trout in most of the state's lakes and streams starts one minute after midnight Friday.

Encouraging news for the fisherman is that samplings of brown trout taken from several rivers showed they contained a very low pesticide residue.

Some showed a pesticide level as low as one-tenth of one part per one million. Others ranged up to 2.7 and 3.0 parts per one million.

This is considered a safely low level.

Borgeson said he only could assume the level would be about the same for brook and rainbow trout in these rivers and other favorite trout streams in the northern Lower Peninsula and the Upper Peninsula.

Borgeson said much more extensive sampling is needed to determine the pesticide level for fish in all of Michigan's inland lakes and streams.

High In Urban Areas
Steelhead trout, the fish expert said, contain fairly high levels since they enter the streams from the Great Lakes.

Tests conducted in Wisconsin showed—as expected—that fish pesticide levels were highest in urban areas and areas of concentrated farming.

The lowest levels and cleanest waters were found in the wilderness area.

This general rule of the thumb

Can't Stop Tooth Decay With Brush Says Dr. Barkley

DETROIT (AP) — Brushing your teeth after every meal is a waste of time.

"You can't stop tooth decay with a toothbrush," said Dr. Robert F. Barkley, a Macomb, Ill., dentist who practices a theory of preventative dentistry. He was in Detroit Monday to address the 112th annual meeting of the Michigan Dental Association.

"Most people could brush between bites and still get tooth decay. The thing is you just can't brush in the places where most people have cavities," he said.

"Once a day is enough," Barkley added.

Dr. Barkley emphasizes the use of dental floss—a thin coated string—in his theory of cleaning teeth which stresses attack on bacteria.

probably also will apply to Michigan waters, Borgeson said.

Fish taken from waters of the Upper Peninsula and streams and lakes in more isolated portions of the northern Lower Peninsula logically can be expected to contain the lowest pesticide levels.

Waters near industrial, farming and orchard areas probably will contain fish with a higher pesticide count.

Commercial Limit

Any standard set by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for the allowable pesticide limit in fish will apply only to commercial fishing. The speculation now is that the federal agency will declare unsafe fish with a pesticide level about 3.5 parts per one million.

The sports fisherman is not covered by any ruling the federal agency might make.

Whatever he is fishing for—trout, salmon, pike, smelt or suckers—the fisherman can make up his own mind on whether to keep and eat his catch.

"I don't think this pesticide business will scare off any of our dyed-in-the-wool fishermen," concluded Wayne Today, chief of the Department of Natural Resources Fish Division.

Israelis Hit Radar Sites

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli warplanes streaked over Jordan again today, and an Israeli military spokesman said they knocked out the major part of Egypt's early warning radar network. Amman Radio said it was Israel's heaviest air attack in more than a year.

A senior member of the Israeli general staff said the attack on two Egyptian radar sites in south Jordan was a partial answer to Egyptian artillery bombardments over the Suez Canal during the past month.

"There are still a lot of options open to us, and I think we will make use of them in due time," he added in a warning of further action.

Egypt meanwhile reported that its patrols crossed the Suez Canal again during the night to attack Israeli positions on the east bank.

Israel said its planes also hit two Arab guerrilla bases in north Jordan.

The Israeli spokesman told a news conference the radar sites hit today were Egypt's sole watch points for Israeli aircraft and had compensated to some extent for the loss of the Sinai Desert during the 1967 war. Another spokesman said the sites blanketed Israeli air activity from Tel Aviv south to the Suez Canal.

It was believed Egypt's only radar stations left are within its own boundaries west of the canal.

Desmond Big Hit At 'LL' Banquet

"If you want, you can," was the theme of the talk presented by Vince Desmond, Special Events Director for the Detroit Tigers, at the 11th Annual Little League Recognition Banquet sponsored by the Escanaba Lions at Holy Name High School last night.

Desmond told the almost 200 Little Leaguers and parents attending the banquet that determination and attitude were the prime requisites in making a professional baseball player and cited many examples of players such as Bill Freehan, Willie Horton, Norm Cash, Dick McAuliffe, Denny Mc-

Lain and Carl Yastrzemski. Desmond also thanked the parents and sponsors for giving the youngsters an opportunity to play baseball and told the young players that it is never too early to start learning fundamentals. "The better you learn them, the better you progress," said the cheerful Tiger representative.

The evening's entertainment got underway with Dave Andrews of the Lions doing some "Twisting-Little League Style" by awarding baseballs autographed by sports personalities and two sets of Tiger pictures to several lucky youngsters and Fred Saykily, president of the Lions Club, welcomed those attending the annual event.

Awards presented at last night's banquet went to Manistique as the Waubesa League champions; Escanaba, Waubesa League runnerups; Tom Jaeger, Minor League player; Jim Nevela, Little League player; Jim Chapekis, manager of the Minor League champion Rotary team; John Chylek, manager of the Little League champion Rotary team; and Guy Knutson, who accepted the championship trophies in both the Minor League and the Little League for the Rotary Club.

Following the speakers, a film showing the highlights of the 1968 World Series was presented. The film paid special attention to the much talked about play at home plate involving Bill Freehan of the Tigers and Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Father Charles Carmody, Superintendent of Holy Name High School, acted as Master of Ceremonies for the event and also gave the invocation and benediction.

Palmer Records Victory As Orioles Bomb Indians

By The Associated Press

Jim Palmer, restored from the scrap heap, has helped Baltimore's high-flying Orioles to a first place perch in the American League's East Division.

Palmer won his third game of the young season Monday night, limiting Cleveland to four hits in Baltimore's 11-0 romp. It was the second shutout for Palmer, who won 15 games for the Orioles when they captured the pennant in 1966 but was virtually useless for the last two seasons because of arm and back trouble.

Palmer's aches and pains are all gone now and the ones who are really hurting are the Indians, who dropped their fifth straight and 10th in 11 starts this season.

Elsewhere in the American League Monday, Detroit blanked Washington 2-0, Seattle tripped Kansas City 4-1, Minnesota took Oakland 8-4 and New York topped Boston 6-4. Chicago and California were not scheduled.

Palmer's arm trouble limited him to 37 innings pitched last year in minor league stops at Elmira, Rochester and Miami. But he regained his touch pitching winter ball in Puerto Rico and he has been Baltimore's best pitcher this season.

Monday's shutout lowered his earned run average to 1.69. He has allowed just 18 hits in 26 2/3 innings and has struck out 19 batters.

Merv Rettenmund cracked a three-run homer for the Orioles in a six-run seventh inning that wrapped up the victory over Sam McDowell. Brooks Robinson had doubled two runs across as the Orioles built an early 4-0 lead for Palmer.

Pitcher Mike Marshall drove in two runs with two key singles and limited Kansas City to seven hits, leading Seattle to its victory in the meeting between the two expansion clubs. Jack Aker nailed down the victory by getting the final out in the ninth for Marshall.

Dean Chance worked seven innings, allowing just two hits, and Minnesota beat Oakland for the Twins' seventh straight victory.

Harmon Killebrew and Graig Nettles punched a pair of two-run singles to pace a five-run Minnesota uprising in the third inning and Tony Oliva extended his hitting streak to nine games with a pair of singles.

Mel Stottlemyre won his fourth game with late-inning help from Lindy McDaniel securing New York's decision over the Red Sox. Three Yankee double plays in the first five innings eased Stottlemyre over some early rough spots.

George Scott homered for the Red Sox.

Harrelson Discussing Contract With Indians

BOSTON (AP) — Ken Harrelson, the reluctant Indian who announced his retirement rather than go along with a trade sending him away from Boston, has reportedly been meeting with Cleveland officials to discuss the possibility of donning his new uniform.

The 1968 American League runs-batted-in leader was said to be huddling Monday night with Gabe Paul, president and general manager of the Indians, at a New York hotel.

There was no immediate word on the outcome of their talks.

Harrelson announced Sunday that he was quitting baseball at the age of 27 rather than accept being traded away by the Red Sox.

He claimed that leaving Boston would cost him up to $750,000 in Boston business opportunities, including a clothing store, a night club, and television and recording deals—all contingent on his staying in this city.

The resulting furor threw Boston fans into a tizzy. Many of them carried signs and chanted "We want the Hawk" in demonstrations at Fenway Park Sunday and Monday. Others bombarded the team and the news media with protests.

Meanwhile, the slugging outfielder-first baseman spent Monday playing golf—his second sport love—while Paul spent all day trying to reach him before finally arranging a meeting.

Harrelson, whose mod dress and flamboyant personality combined with his hitting to take Boston by storm in little more than a year, was the key man in the six-player deal.

He was sent to the Indians along with left-handed pitchers Dick Ellisworth and Juan Pizarro in exchange for catcher Joe Azcue and right-handed hurlers Sonny Siebert and Vicente Romo.

"New England fans stunned," read the headlines in one Boston newspaper, and Harrelson seemed stunned himself the next day as he announced his retirement in the office of his attorney, Bob Woolf.

"I just really can't believe it—the Hawk sitting here and announcing his retirement," he said.

League officials said that under baseball rules a trade would be nullified unless all the players involved reported to their new teams.

General Manager Dick O'Connell of the Red Sox told newsmen he could not foresee the Boston club taking Harrelson back now under any circumstances—even if the whole deal should be called off.

O'Connell said he conferred with Paul by telephone Monday but they didn't discuss any substitute deals.

"He wants Harrelson," the Boston general manager said. "The thing now is for those two to talk and see what can be worked out."

Meanwhile the five other players involved have joined their new clubs but are chafing at the bit under enforced vacations while awaiting the outcome of the trades.

O'Connell said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn had instructed the teams not to use the players until the matter is straightened out.

Sparma's 2-Hit Job Tops Senators, 2-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit's Joe Sparma thinks the rules change on the strike zone has given the hitters an added edge this season.

"Under last year's rules, there would have been close to no walks tonight," he said after he shut out the Washington Senators 2-0 on a two-hitter Monday night. "They (the umpires) call the low ones balls."

Sparma won his second of the year but also walked eight batters, the same number he had April 13 when he beat New York 6-2.

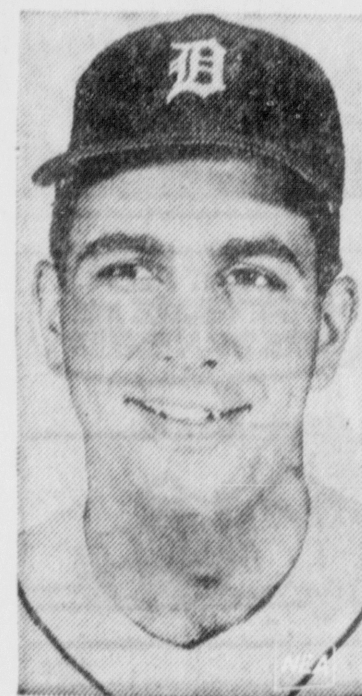

"They just don't seem to call the low ones," he said. "You can't get a strike when you throw it low."

Under the rules, the strike zone is the space over home plate which is between the batter's armpits and the top of the knees when he assumes his natural stance.

Last year, the zone was between the top of the batter's shoulders and his knees.

"I didn't realize I had walked eight guys," he said. "But that pitch on the last guy was right below the knees. It would have been a strike last year."

Bernie Allen walked in the ninth and Ed Brinkman singled right after him to put Sparma in one of the few trouble spots he had with the Senators.

"My ball was moving well for me," Sparma said, "but he played great behind me again tonight. He was great against the Yankees too."

The he Sparma referred to was second baseman Dick McAuliffe, who made two outstanding defensive plays, starting a double play in the sixth and throwing out Del Unser in the third with a man on second.

McAuliffe also was the relay man on a play that cut Mike Epstein down at the plate, the only time the Senators tried to score.

Epstein walked to open the fourth and Allen doubled down the right field line. Al Kaline, who hit his third homer of the year in the sixth, threw to McAuliffe, who relayed to Bill Freehan. The catcher put the tag on Epstein easily.

"I think McAuliffe is the best second baseman in baseball," said Manager Mayo Smith. "And he's the most improved. He had only nine errors last season and 21 the year before."

Nixon Does Flip On Tax Credit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's announcement Monday that he favors repeal of the investment tax credit marked a complete flipflop from the administration's policy of just a week ago.

One after another, top administration officials who met with AFL-CIO leaders in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., last week recited to newsmen the reasons why the credit should not be repealed.

The labor chiefs disagreed. So did Democratic leaders in Congress. They charged that the tax credit, created in 1962 as a stimulus to business investment, was stoking the furnace of inflation.

Until the past weekend, when it became clear that President Nixon's advisers were having a rush of second thoughts, the official replies were always the same:

Growth Factor

—The credit, which lets a businessman chop from his tax bill 7 per cent of his outlays for new machinery and equipment, is a long-term inducement to investment and growth. In more years than not it will be needed as a job-creating stimulant.

—Its repeal would be equivalent to a $3 billion tax increase. On top of existing anti-inflation restraints, it would provide too much squeeze, might cause a recession.

—A repeal would disrupt industry's investment planning; it's not fair to change the tax rules in the middle of the game. And it would be an administrative nightmare for the Treasury.

All those arguments could be heard from the secretary of the treasury, the budget director, the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers—even from economist Arthur F. Burns, counselor to the President, when he talked to newsmen just one week ago.

Overheated

So what changed things? It wasn't last Thursday's report on national output. It showed, by a $16 billion rise in the first quarter, that the economy was still overheated; and a few more recent indicators suggested that the long-awaited slowdown is coming.

Nor were there any doubts about the potential effectiveness of killing the tax credit. It was suspended in 1966, for the same reason. The result was merely the capital investment boom was quickly deflated. Everyone knew that, too.

So what persuaded the White House, finally, to move? Obviously, it occurred to

Large Attendance Is Indicated For Worth Testimonial

The committee in charge of arrangements for the testimonial dinner honoring Jean Worth said today that first requests for tickets indicate an attendance from throughout the Midwest.

Worth is retiring next month as editor of the Escanaba Daily Press after a long, distinguished career as a Michigan newspaperman.

Many leaders in education, religion, government, agriculture, tourism and industry will attend the dinner which is scheduled at the Terrace May 7.

The group planning the testimonial, Friends of Jean Worth, emphasized that the dinner is a public salute in honor of a man who earned the respect and friendship of a great many people.

Anyone not reached through the first announcement may obtain tickets by writing the committee at Box 155, Escanaba, or calling the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, 786-2192.

Somebody that if you wiped out the investment credit, which was no longer needed, you might persuade Congress to replace it with an incentive that is needed.

Nixon's answer to the ills of the cities—his central economic strategy, in fact—is a tax credit to induce private companies to build plants in ghettos and give job-training to idle slum dwellers.
